

Visit to a Zoo

Keeping in mind the idea that a trip to Zoo can boost a child's science and conservation education more than books or classroom teaching alone, the students of classes VI to VIII were taken for an excursion to a National Zoo. The trip around the zoo provided a statistically significant increase in students' scientific learning about animals and habitats. Children came back with a greater understanding of ideas such as conservation, habitat and extinction. Thus a Zoo is a place of education as well as of entertainment.