नमस्कार

कला एकीकरण विषय पर आधारित हमारे स्कूल पत्रिका, के इस विशेष संस्करण के प्रकाशन पर मुझे अपार हर्ष का अनुभव हो रहा है। कला गतिविधियाँ बचपन में ही मस्तिष्क की क्षमता विकसित करती हैं इसलिए स्कूल पाठ्यक्रम में कला रूपों को एकीकृत करने से छात्रों को मुख्य स्कूल विषयों को अधिक अनुभवात्मक और समग्र रूप से सीखने में मदद मिलती है। विद्यार्थियों में कलात्मक भावना का पोषण करने से उनमें निश्चित रूप से रचनात्मकता, उत्कृष्टता के लिए प्रयास, चरित्र-निर्माण, आत्म-विकास के साथ-साथ जीवन भर के लिए अच्छी आदतें विकसित होंगी। मैं इस 'न्यूजलेटर' के लिए विद्यार्थियों एवं विद्यालय की कर्मठ टीम का हार्दिक पुनः अभिनन्दन करता हूँ।

HUMANS OF ART

1 ZEITGEIST

"art is not what you see, but what you make others see"

Art. Such a small word. Such big meanings behind it, or if we are speaking philosophically, perhaps no meaning at all! Art is such an abstract term, that we are yet to decipher its complete and concrete meaning. But perhaps art wasn't meant to be concrete. Perhaps it was all rooted in interpretation and was left for us, logic loving and god fearing infinitesimal blips of the universe to try and figure this configuration. After all isn't interpretation and analyzation the most rudimentary part of art? Art, simply put, is our human mind. Our human mind as it showcases its most elegant, frightening, beautiful, disgusting, ugly, fascinating and (my personal favorite) slightly insane thoughts on a blank piece of paper. The feelings that the human mind deemed to be unexplainable and hence, unethical, were sometimes the colours that bled through our paint brushes and happened to fall upon a canvas, thereafter being labeled art.

But what if we all were art? What if we were the creations of an unknown, omnipotent master who saw a glimpses of his own soul in certain faces, and painted them likewise? This theory could have 3 possible instances.

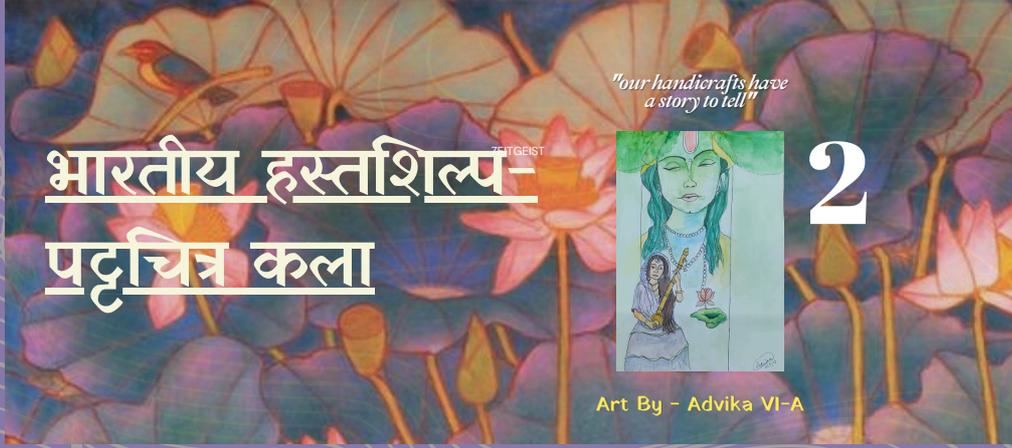

One: We could all be the creations of a kind, empathetic and good willed benevolent master, who painted us all to be the perfect people; however, looking at the world today that seems highly unlikely.

Two: It is also quite possible that we are all the dirty creations of a cruel, ruthless malevolent master whose rage bled through his mind into our bodies; but the world isn't that bad either, so this one is just as likely as the former

The third one however, seems to be the most likely, considering the contemporary world. This theory states that we, contrary to popular belief, were not made by an alien, omnipotent creature, but rather a person or an organism not too different from us perhaps simply superior in intelligence.

Whatever the case may be we as humans of art are so uniquely different, enigmatic and diverse, it would be a shame to not call ourselves art, for art is not what you see, but what you make others feel.

विविध संस्कृतियों एवं गौरवशाली इतिहास से समृद्ध है, हमारा भारत देश । भारत के उत्कृष्ट हस्तशिल्प ने न सिर्फ देश में, बल्कि विदेश में भी सम्मान पाया है। हर एक हस्तशिल्प के ताने-बाने में कई अनसुनी-अनकही कहानियां गुथी हुई हैं। पट्टचित्र कला, भारतीय हस्तशिल्प के विशाल सागर की मात्र एक बूंद है।

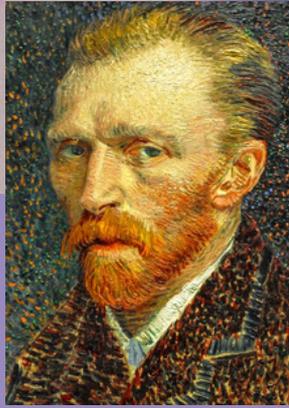

पट्टचित्र कला या पट्टचित्र सामान्य रूप से कपड़े पर की गई 'स्कॉल' पेंटिंग को कहा जाता है, जो पूर्वी भारतीय राज्यों ओडिशा और पश्चिम बंगाल में स्थित है। पट्टचित्र के निर्माण में केवल प्राकृतिक रंजक और रंगों का उपयोग किया जाता है। पट्टचित्र कला अपने जटिल विवरणों के साथ-साथ इसमें अंकित पौराणिक आख्यानों और लोककथाओं के लिए जानी जाती है। पट्टचित्र, ओडिशा की प्राचीन कलाकृतियों में से एक है, जो मूल रूप से पुरी और साथ ही ओडिशा के अन्य मंदिरों के तीर्थयात्रियों के लिए स्मृति चिन्ह के रूप में बनाई गई थी।

पट्टचित्र एक प्राचीन 'बंगाली कथा कला' का एक चटक है, जो मूल रूप में एक गीत के प्रदर्शन के दौरान एक दृश्य उपकरण के रूप में कार्य करता है। पट्टचित्र कला, मशाल का कार्य करते हुए भारतीय संस्कृति एवं परंपराओं को हमारे आजकल के युग से अवगत कराती है।

अतः यह हमारा कर्तव्य है की हम भी इन हस्तकलाओं का सम्मान करें तथा कारीगरों की पीढ़ियों द्वारा संरक्षित इन स्थानीय हस्तशिल्पों को खरीदकर भारत की समृद्ध कला संस्कृति को आगे बढ़ाने में मदद करें।

NIGHT

A few weeks before The Starry Night's Birth, Vincent Van Gogh had tried to poison himself with paint and kill himself with everything he ever loved; with color. In the world of art, there have been several archetypal mad-crazed artists and the Dutch painter happened to be one of them. His expression of his mind through his bold, symbolic, impulsive, and highly expressive brush strokes did not come into being until he was thirty. Despite his short life as an artist, he gave the world several gifts, 'The Starry Night' being the most precious.

It was on 18th June 1889 when Van Gogh painted his most infamous work from a small mental asylum in the Alpilles. Inspired by the impressionists of that time, he used nature as his muse, indulging in the creation of optimistic landscapes, characterized by a bright-coloured palette and thick impasto brush strokes.

"This morning I saw the countryside from my window a long time before sunrise, with nothing but the morning star, which looked very big." states an excerpt from one of the many letters the artist wrote to his beloved brother, Theo. The painting is believed to be an amalgamation of night-time and dawn views from his asylum windows. Painted from his memory, several things make this piece of art a masterpiece. Whether it be the depiction of the turbulently fluid night skies with eddies of stars that melt into the Milky Way, or the way the comically large cypress tree links heaven and earth.

The painting uses lamination to reproduce the starlight that appears to be twinkling through delineated brush strokes, even on a lifeless canvas. It's a widely studied painting for its groundbreaking illustration of turbulence, a physics phenomenon also observed in Jupiter's great red spot, spiral galaxies, and interstellar dust particles.

"When I have a terrible need of— shall I say the word— religion, I go out and paint the stars" Another one of the countless remarkable things in the painting, is the illustration of the countryside. It is not at all in correspondance to the village he saw through his barred window every day. We see how the way he painted houses and churches was reminiscent of the Dutch architecture he knew very well, illuminated by the cream spirals he drew towards the south to bring the budding mist of dawn to life.

Not only is The Starry Night an account of van Gogh's idiosyncratic perception of nature and the morbidity that took over him as his mental health deteriorated, but it is also a revolutionary piece of art, inspiring millions to paint the way he did. Piquing the interest of inspired painters, admiring laymen, and astonished mathematicians, The Starry Night is a testimony to the bizarre beauty of human nature, existence, and art.
