A workshop on Effective Teaching of Environment Education in Schools was conducted by WWF – India under the aegis of National Progressive Schools’ Conference on 07 Sep 2015 at Springdales school Pusa road New Delhi. The workshop was attended by educators from various schools from Delhi, Noida and Gurgaon, Ms. Mamta Singh and Ms. Ruchi Bhaglal attended the workshop from ITL Public School.

The workshop began with a presentation slide show on Environment Education by Ms. Radhika Suri, Director Environment Education, WWF-India. It covered different topics like definition of Environment Education, the right way of teaching Environment Education and the need to emphasise on Environment Education in schools. The presentation was mostly focused on Environment Education and how it develops awareness about the Bio-diversity, water energy, laws and policies, society and cultures. It also showed how Environment Education helps students acquire skills, such as critical thinking, problem solving, reasoning and evaluation skills that positively impact their academic achievements. It also sensitises our future generation towards mother nature and our planet Earth.

To make the session interactive various activities like collage making, role play and debating were held. All the educators participated enthusiastically and were immensely energised and motivated by the session.

In the end of the session certificates were distributed to all participants and a vote of thanks was given by the headmistress of the Springdales school.
