1	Read the following passage and answer the questions given below: The deep ocean is a dark and hidden world full of surprises. It lies far below the reach of sunlight, in an area where the water is icy cold, and the pressure is incredibly strong. Despite these harsh conditions, many strange and fascinating creatures live here. Some fish and squid make their own light, glowing softly to help them find food or escape from predators. This ability, called bioluminescence, is like having built-in lights in a place where no sunlight can reach. The ocean floor is not flat but has huge underwater mountains and deep valleys. In some places, there are hydrothermal vents, where hot water bursts out from beneath the Earth's crust. Around these vents, special bacteria and odd creatures like giant tube worms live without sunlight, surviving on chemicals from the Earth instead. a) Describe the physical features of deep ocean. b) What is bioluminescence, and how do creatures in the deep ocean use it? c) Find a word from the passage that mean the same as 'weird'.
