

The colours: with and within us

“Spring is a lovely reminder of how beautiful change can truly be”

Holi marks the advent of spring, a season of flowers and colours. It is a prelude to new beginnings and vibrant energies. We celebrate togetherness, happiness and blossoming of new friendships. The festival also celebrates the beginning of a good spring harvest season.

It is after two long years, we got an opportunity to fully immerse ourselves in the spirit of festivity; beyond the confines of the virtual platform. Cheer, laughter, songs and rhythm reclaimed the spaces of Shikshantar as children engaged themselves in a sensorially enriched celebration.

Children danced to the sounds of spring with 'Faagun aaya' on the mound and collectively sang Holi songs. They explored the colours within and around them by experiencing a sensory path, created with vibrant, colourful blooms in Shikshantar's Flower nursery. Their questions, feelings and observations about the flowers echoed in that space.

The celebration was culminated with riddles on flowers and discussion in the groups.
