Every morning, Rani helps her mother fetch water from a well that is 2 km away. There are no rivers nearby. The sun is very hot during the day, and it gets cold at night. Her house is made of mud walls, which keeps it cool.

Rani's family keeps camels and goats. Her father grows bajra (millet) on their farm during the rainy season. They store water in big clay pots and use it carefully.

Even though life is tough, Rani loves the colorful clothes, folk songs, and camel rides. Every year, her family visits the Desert Festival in Jaisalmer, where people dance, play instruments, and decorate their camels!

Q1. Where does Rani live? What kind of place is it?
