TEACHER'S CORNER- VOICES THAT INSPIRE

SHOULD WE REALLY CALL CHILDREN 'SMART' OR SAY 'EXCELLENT' FOR EVERYTHING?

Aparna Chandra
Headmistress, Pre-Primary Wing

We all know how harmful negative labels like “slow” or “not so bright” can be for children. But what about the positive ones—calling them “smart,” “gifted,” or saying “excellent” for every piece of work? While it seems encouraging, it may not be doing our children as much good as we think.

Labels—whether flattering or not—can make children define themselves only through that tag. When they are repeatedly called “smart,” they often feel pressured to keep proving it. This fear of losing approval can make them hesitant to try new or challenging tasks, robbing them of the lessons that come from making mistakes.

Similarly, praising every average effort with “very good” or “excellent” can blur a child’s sense of what true excellence looks like. If everything is labelled “good,” there’s little motivation to strive higher. Even during corrections, if a teacher marks average work as “good,” the child assumes that is their best and stops aiming for improvement.

Children also start believing that talent is fixed—that they are either “smart” or not—when in truth, every child can grow, learn, and excel through effort and perseverance.

What truly nurtures growth is specific, sincere feedback: “You worked hard on this” or “Your handwriting has improved” helps children recognize the value of effort and progress.

Every child is unique, with limitless potential waiting to be explored. Let’s encourage them to embrace challenges, learn from mistakes, and discover the joy of genuine achievement—without being bound by labels or empty praise.

THE MAGIC OF MORNING ASSEMBLIES

Morning assemblies are one of the most important events of our school day. They are not just about standing in lines or speaking on the stage; they are about starting the day with purpose and discipline.

Each morning, students from all classes gather to begin the day on a positive and meaningful note. A new class takes the stage daily, presenting a chosen theme through short speeches, poems, skits, or songs. The assembly includes the thought of the day, word of the day, and important news updates, helping students stay informed.

What makes morning assemblies truly special is the opportunity given to every child, from Grades Nursery to Grade 12, to speak, perform, and grow. It is a platform that helps students build confidence and develop public speaking skills.

Morning assemblies are also a time to recognise and celebrate every achievement, be it academic success, sports victories, or inter-school competition wins. Assemblies also instil a deep sense of pride and belonging.

As we conclude every assembly with the school song and the national anthem, students feel proud to be a part of the school and their country.

More than anything, morning assemblies are a time for connection, for students, teachers, and the Director-Principal. It is a daily ritual that binds us together and reminds us that we are one school family.

Thank you Swati ma'am and Anaaya ma'am for your efforts and care towards making Tarini's first month at school enjoyable and memorable. Best wishes to you ! I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate and appreciate the efforts that was put together on Mother's Day celebration by the teachers, support staff and the children and the broad vision of Mrs. Chandra to instill confidence in children from this stage

Tarini's Parent's(Nursery A)

I'm truly grateful to Ms. Shilpa Bali and Ms. Ankita Rana for taking such wonderful care of my daughter, Anaisha Shandilya, who is in Pre-Nursery. As a child who had never been to day care before, she has adjusted beautifully under their patient and nurturing guidance. I can already see great improvement in her communication and understanding. The school ensures smooth communication with parents and keeps children engaged through fun, meaningful learning about festivals and concepts. I'm especially thankful for the opportunity she got to participate in AMPS Kaleidoscope 2025 at such a young age – a wonderful exposure made possible by the school.

BONDED IN BELIEF: FEEDBACK THAT INSPIRES

It is always such a joy to see Kehna perform in front of her classmates and parents. Knowing that she has been an introvert, I still remember the days when she would hardly speak a word in front of strangers and kept her eyes lowered. Watching her now, performing with confidence, fills me with pride at how far she has come - and I know this is just the beginning of a long journey ahead. This progress has been possible only because of both of you - the wonderful teachers at Xavier's. Your nurturing approach, the thoughtful curriculum, and the consistent efforts you put into every child's growth are truly commendable. Thank you so much, Ma'ams, for everything you do with such dedication.

It was an amazing performance by all the children. The classroom, the props and the experiments were so well done too. Thank you for all the time you teachers have put behind making learning fun for the children

I would like to extend our sincere appreciation to the class teachers for organising such a wonderful and well-curated space exhibition. The effort, creativity, and planning that went into the event were clearly visible, and it turned out to be an engaging and enriching experience for the children. Such initiatives not only spark curiosity but also encourage them to think beyond the classroom and explore new horizons of knowledge. Thank you for your dedication and for creating such meaningful learning opportunities.

A heartfelt thank you to all the amazing teachers whose dedication and hard work shine through in every child's performance. Watching the kids take the stage with such confidence and joy is a true reflection of the time, patience, and encouragement you've poured into them. Your efforts not only bring out their talents but also help build their self-esteem and courage. You're truly shaping stars, both on stage and in life!

Our heartfelt gratitude to you for orchestrating such a beautiful and meaningful exhibition activity. Every detail—from the vibrant decorations to the creative props and costumes—spoke volumes about the thought, effort, and love you poured into it. What touched us most was the way you guided the little ones with such patience and warmth, turning a simple classroom activity into a joyful and memorable learning experience. It is truly reassuring to see our children blossom under your nurturing care. Thank you for not just teaching them, but for inspiring them with kindness, creativity, and confidence.
