RESONANCE FROM THE PARENTS' HEART

FROM THE DESK OF THE DIRECTOR-PRINCIPAL

Education empowers learners not only to excel academically, but to express, empathise, and evolve."

It gives me immense pride to present the third-quarter edition of XAVRONICLE, a reflection of learning that extended far beyond classrooms. This quarter beautifully showcased our commitment to the CBSE competency-based framework, nurturing creativity, collaboration, critical thinking, and strong values.

The Annual Production emerged as a powerful learning experience, blending art, discipline, leadership, and emotional intelligence. Events like the Winter Carnival and Literary Competitions further enriched student learning through experiential engagement, communication, and problem-solving.

Each achievement reaffirmed our belief that true education harmoniously blends academics with character and life skills. At St. Xavier's, we remain dedicated to nurturing confident, compassionate, and future-ready learners through the collective efforts of our educators, parents, and students.

May this edition inspire pride, reflection, and a shared commitment to purposeful learning.

Happy Reading!

MS. RITU MEHTA

FROM THE DESK OF THE HEADMISTRESS

It gives me immense pleasure to welcome you to the Quarter III edition of the Middle School Xavronicle. This issue reflects the enthusiasm, creativity, and commitment shown by our students and teachers during the past months.

Quarter III has been a vibrant and enriching phase, marked by academic growth, co-curricular achievements, and memorable experiences. A special highlight of this Quarter was our Annual Concert, "Allusion Galore : Know Thyself," which beautifully showcased the talents of our middle school students. Through music, dance, drama, and expression, the concert conveyed a powerful theme that the journey inward is the way forward. It was truly heartening to witness our students perform with such confidence, sensitivity, and depth of understanding.

Another significant milestone this Quarter was our students' participation in the Student Exchange Programme to Russia. This enriching international experience provided them with an opportunity to experience a new culture, broaden their global outlook, and build meaningful cross-cultural connections—an essential step in shaping responsible global citizens.

Equally commendable was the enthusiastic participation of our students in the Inter-Branch XAV Mind Math Challenge, where they demonstrated sharp analytical skills, logical thinking, and a spirit of healthy competition. Such platforms encourage intellectual curiosity and reinforce the joy of learning beyond the classroom.

Alongside these notable events, our students continued to engage actively in academics and activities that nurtured teamwork, creativity, and responsibility. This Xavronicle captures these moments of effort, reflection, and achievement.

I extend my sincere appreciation to our students for their dedication, to our teachers for their constant guidance, and to the editorial team for thoughtfully compiling this edition. Each page stands as a testament to the vibrant spirit of our school community.

As you turn these pages, may you feel inspired by our collective journey and encouraged to continue striving for excellence.

Happy reading!

Warm regards,

काली, घनी और अंधेरी जाड़े की रात थी। चाँद कोहरा ढाया था और सन्नाटा था। बाहर से कुत्तों के भौंकने की तेज़ आवाज़ें आ रही थीं। ठंडी हवा और कुत्तों के शोर से मुझे नींद नहीं आ रही थी। मैंने सहारे हुए जैसे ही घर का दरवाज़ा खोला कि चाँद धरती पर उतर आया है। चारों ओर चाँदनी फैली हुई थी। मुझे लगा कि आज तो मैं गया।

इस कहानी के पढ़ने वाले को मेरा सादर प्रणाम। इस कहानी के खत्म होने तक तुम्हारे आस-पास के हर व्यक्ति का पता चल जाएगा कि तुम कौन हो। मैं? मैं हूँ सिनेमा डेविड। मैं हूँ एक इंसान, ऐसा कोई शिकारी नहीं, बल्कि का शिकारी। मेरी कहानी शुरू होती है भारत के प्रसिद्ध शहर, मुंबई से। मैं अनाथाश्रम में था। क्यों? मैं अनाथ था और हाँ मैंने भागने की कोशिश की थी। फिर एक दिन मैं भागने की एक चतुर-सी योजना बना रहा था कि एक आवाज़ ने कहा, “तुम्हें पता है ना कि तुम फिर से पकड़े जाओगे।” मैं झट से मुड़ा। मेरे पीछे एक बूढ़ा आदमी खड़ा था, श्रीमान हिल।

इस पूरे अनाथाश्रम में बस वही एक थे जो जानते थे कि हाँ भाई, मैं इंसान हूँ और मैं जिंदा हूँ। और सब के लिए मैं बुरा ही था, गंदा हूँ, और कभी ना सुधरूँगा। लेकिन आज उनके आवाज़ में कुछ घबराहट लग रही थी। मैंने ज्यादा कुछ नहीं सोचा और उनके पीछे जाने लगा। उन्हें मेरे ठिकाने के बारे में पता कैसे चला? खैर, मैं उनके पीछे-पीछे जाकर बेसमेंट में पहुँचा। मैं हैरान रह गया। आज तक?

काली घनी और अँधेरी जाड़े की रात थी। घना अँधेरा छाया था और चारों ओर सन्नाटा था। बाहर से कुत्तों के भौंकने की आवाज़ें आ रही थीं। घनी ठंड और कुत्तों के शोर से मुझे नींद नहीं आ रही थी। मैं जैसे ही आँगन में गया, घर का दरवाज़ा खोला तो लगा मानो चाँद धरती पर उतर आया हो। चारों ओर चाँदनी फैली हुई थी और मुझे लगा जैसे मैं किसी दूसरी दुनिया में पहुँच गया हूँ। मोहल्ले के सारे कुत्ते जमा हो गए थे। चारों ओर एक अलग ही माहौल था। एक कोने में लोग इकट्ठा हुए थे। सबकी आँखें आश्चर्य से फटी हुई थीं। उस चाँद के कारण कुछ घर टूट गए थे और कई लोग घायल भी हो गए थे। देखते ही देखते लोगों की भीड़ बढ़ती गई और कई न्यूज़ चैनलों के पत्रकार भी वहाँ आ गए। इसी बीच उस चाँद की सतह पर हलचल हुई और एक विचित्र युवक सामने आया। वह सोने की तरह चमक रहा था। एक व्यक्ति ने पूछने पर बताया कि वही है जिसे बच्चे “चंदा मामा” कहते हैं। वह पृथ्वी पर घूमने और बच्चों से मिलने आया था।

पहले बच्चे उसके पास जाने से डर रहे थे, पर जब उन्हें उस पर विश्वास हुआ तो वे उसके पास दौड़ पड़े। उसने उन्हें थोड़ा दूर रहने को कहा ताकि उसकी शक्तियों से किसी को नुकसान न पहुँचे। दुनिया भर में चंदा मामा की कहानी फैल चुकी थी।

अब धीरे-धीरे उजाला होने लगा। उसने वहाँ से जाने का निर्णय लिया। सभी बच्चे उदास हो गए, पर उसने वादा किया कि वह फिर वापस आएगा। कुछ ही पलों में सब कुछ पहले जैसा हो गया और सब भविष्य के लिए सोचने लगे।

एक स्वयं ईश्वर ने पृथ्वी पर अपने कमल स्वर्ण चरण रखे थे। बीच में एक स्वर्ण से बना एक चमकीला घड़ा था। अचानक सारी रोशनी घड़े में समा गई। मेरे उत्सुक मन ने मुझे घड़े के और चलने का आदेश दिया। मैंने जैसे ही घड़े के अंदर देखा, मुझे उसमें बस जल दिखाई दिया। मैंने बहुत प्रयास किया गौर से देखने का, परंतु घड़े में जल के अलावा कुछ भी नहीं था। मैंने घड़े को अपने कमरे में रखा और सोने चला गया। अगले दिन स्कूल में मेरे और एक बच्चे की लड़ाई हुई। लौटते मैंने माँ को सब कुछ बता दिया। मेरी माताजी ने कहा कि अगर उसने पहले मारा तो मैंने उसे वापस क्यों मारा। मुझे यह बात समझ नहीं आई। मैंने दुखी मन से घड़े में वापस देखा तो मुझे उसमें मेरा प्रतिबिंब दिखा। तब मुझे पता चला कि जब मैंने उस बच्चे को वापस मारा तो मुझे और उस बच्चे को अलग बना दिया है। अगले दिन स्कूल जाकर मैंने उससे माफी माँगी और दोस्ती कर दी। वह घड़ा गायब हो गया था।

लगा कि तूफ़ान आने वाला था और ऐसा ही हुआ। मैं हूँ अंशल, जो चंदेरी गाँव जा रहा था। मेरे साथ बस में एक बाबा बैठे थे। वह पूर्णिमा की रात थी और तूफ़ान बहुत भयानक था। बाबा बोले, “पूर्णिमा की रात तूफ़ान का आना अनर्थ का संकेत है।” मैंने पूछा, “मतलब?” बाबा बोले, “तुमने पूर्णिमा की कहानी नहीं सुनी?” मैंने कहा, “नहीं, मैं यहाँ नया हूँ, अभी तो कुछ भी नहीं जानता।” “अच्छा, तो सुनो,” कहते हुए बाबा ने कहानी शुरू की। लड़खड़ाती आवाज़ में उन्होंने कहा, “बहुत साल पहले चंदेरी पर एक रानी राज करती थी। वह सुंदर, साहसी और रणभूमि में निपुण थी।” मैंने पूछा, “बाबा, कौन-सी रानी? उनका नाम क्या था?” बाबा ने चारों ओर देखकर धीरे से कहा, “शांत रहो, कोई सुन न ले... उनका नाम था रानी पद्मावती।” उन्हें बहुत मनाने की कोशिश की गई, पर वह अपनी पुत्री और राज्य को छोड़ने वाली नहीं थी। घरवालों ने उन्हें मारने की खूब कोशिश की, पर वह हर बार बच गई। परंतु एक दिन उन्हें धोखे से मार दिया गया। वह रात पूर्णिमा की थी—तूफ़ान से भरी हुई। कहते हैं, अपना बदला लेने के लिए वह आज भी पूर्णिमा की तूफ़ानी रात में लौटती है। बेचारी “अरे बाप रे! बेचारी कहना भी मत,” बाबा ने बीच में टोकते हुए कहा। “वह बेचारी नहीं, वह सबसे महान रानी थी।”

Igniting Imagination: Inter Class English Story Weaving Competition

On 18 December 2025, St. Xavier's High School proudly hosted Inter-Class Story Writing Competition for Grade VI- VIII, an event designed to awaken creativity and polish the writing skills of our Xaverian students. The competition was organized with the aim of encouraging original thought, narrative flair and expressive language among young writers. The prompt given to participants was: "Sam's family wrote their Christmas wishes on paper stars every year. This year, Sam wished for a "peaceful and quiet holiday." But when he woke up, his house was the noisiest, most chaotic place imaginable. It was as if his wish was working in reverse ...". This enchanting idea offered students the perfect canvas to let their imaginations run wild. Each student was asked to continue the story, build characters, plot twists, and arrive at a memorable conclusion. The judging criteria included originality of idea, coherence of plot, vivid description, language and grammar, and the overall impact of the ending. The competition was a resounding success, bringing out the latent storytelling talents of many students. It also fulfilled the school's objective of developing Xaverians' writing skills, building confidence, and instilling a love for creative expression.

Working in reverse. Sam woke up to the sounds of pots clattering and cutlery clinking. She went down to the kitchen to find his parents and sister at the table, tucking into egg sandwiches. "Finally," dad said. "We've been waiting for you. Surprise! We're going on a trip to Thailand! We will be by the beach for seven whole days! Are you excited?"

Sam felt lost. 'Beach...?' But I hate the beach. I don't like sunshine. Also, its too cold to jump in the sea.

Her father's face hardened. "Then you can stay here. It's what your sister wants. we owed it to her for how hard she's been working."

Of course. Her sister. The girl who could do no wrong in her parents' eyes. Every whim of hers was heard. Sam was always... forgotten.

"Fine." Sam said. "I'll stay. Happy holidays." His sister smirked at him and stuck her tongue out. She quickly rearranged her face before any anyone else could see it.

An hour later, sam's car was out of the driveway and only he was at home. He ordered himself takeout for breakfast, because he was too numb to make anything himself without breaking anything, bowl or two. The cold egg sandwiches sat on the kitchen counter. He finally threw them away, after contemplating for an hour whether to leave them in his parents' bed as a gift. He picked up his phone and dialed his friend Max. "Hey. Wanna come over?"

Half an hour later, the two boys were playing a game. Suddenly - THUD. They looked at each other with bewildered eyes. "Wha-?" Max questioned. "Let's investigate." said Sam. "Samuel, what if its someone dangerous?" "Then I'll take the risk."

They went downstairs & found the living room torn apart. Fluff from the sofas everywhere. "What in the world happened here?" Then they saw it. A shadow. But... it didn't look human. It looked vaguely... feline.

"Boots! Boots!" They jumped at the voice. They ran out and spotted an orange tabby cat in the yard. They saw Mrs. Hunchkins, Sam's neighbour, too.

"Hey Mrs Hunchkins! Is this your cat?" Sam yelled.

"YES! Thank you so much!" She ran out. "naughty Boots!" Sam gave Boots back to her owner.

"Now, where are your parents?" "Thailand." Sam said sadly. "I don't like the beach, so they left me here."

"Oh dear," You both come in & and eat my homemade cookies and get nice and warm!"

They ate delicious cookies. Sam went to Mrs Hunchkins house everyday from then on.

He tried again, "I wish for sugar." He got the opposite, something bitter... It was true, it was really working in reverse. At least the wishes were coming true!

"I wish for a noisy chaotic holiday," Sam said. "We are going to Shimla for a calm holiday," his mother said the next day. "Oh really! That's great!"

Happy that it worked! "What if I wished for something better." "I wish everyone in the world is hungry." The next day.

"BREAKING NEWS! World hunger has been resolved! The world is turning into a better place!" "Nobody knows how it happened!" "Was it divine intervention?" A little kid anyone know, it was him who solved world hunger. "What if he took credit for doing it?" "Hey mom, did you know it was me who solved world hunger."

"Honey, don't be silly!" He told his granddad through no one believed him. "I wish no one would know about me solving world hunger." The next day no one knew anything. He realized, he should not take credit for everything. The wishes had stopped coming true. It was over!

Winning Stories

Ever since he was a kid he had social anxiety and as he grew up it got worse. Now he is 13-years old and you all might think what is that he fears the most - a spider? a ghost? or maybe he is afraid of heights? Well no the thing he is most afraid of is a crowd of people.

And right now he is not only in a place filled with a lot of people but a place which reeks of apple pie (he hates it) "what should I-" Before he could finish his sentence a ball came flying and hit his face "Ron!" he said angrily. Ron, his cousin is as mischievous as ever.

"How am I supposed to survive this??" He said anxiously without thinking much he ran towards his room and locked himself up all day.

He could hear the voices of laughter and the smell of different types of food. Sweet and sour smells were all over the place (the smell of Apple pie was no longer there).

He was just laying on his bed and staring at the roof but suddenly there was a soft knock on his bedroom door. He slowly got up and went towards his door half-expecting his cousins to be there. But there was not Ron or any other cousin but his father, who stood there with kind eyes, waiting patiently for him.

"he slowly let his father inside his room, " umm... hey I am ruining the fun? Aren't I?" He asked nervously.

"Who said you are? I am just here to get some fresh air. It can be pretty chaotic in Christmas huh." his father said gently.

"I know I am ruining the fun. You don't have to lie to me father?" He said softly.

"I am not Sam, and you know what? When I was a kid I was afraid of Christmas too," He said.

"What? You were afraid of Christmas? why?" Sam asked.

"Well you see I was a quiet kid who just wanted to have some fun but whenever there was an opportunity I would chicken out. Haha ironic isn't it?" He said.

"So you had social anxiety?" He asked even though he already knew the answer. "Oh well yes. But I stepped out of my comfort zone and started including myself in the events and started talking to my cousins and other family members more often." He said softly.

He knew what his father meant by that. So he stepped out of his comfort zone. And you know what? This Christmas became a turning point in his life and all it took was so some courage and confidence."

RY- Nakshita (VIII F)

"Mom, where is the charger?" His sister Sarah was yelling, searching every nook and cranny of the house. Dad had just strayed into the house and it has now jumped on the couch and was tearing it apart. Mom was yelling at some grocery-store shopkeeper on the phone, who had sent the expired rice and grams pulses. And Sam's friend kept standing outside the house, calling again and again for him to come out and play.

Sam was an introvert. A peace-lover whose idea of the perfect holiday was to sit in his attic, lost in his time, drift away with his books.

As he walked out of his house, annoyed, he slammed the door shut behind him. He told his friend he'd play later and went off to the public library to find some peace. But to his dismay, he realized it was closed. The children's park 2 well, it had children running around it, creating chaos.

As Sam walked, the sky looked at the dark or clouds to cover up the sun. Then out they burst, throwing out cool water droplets. They gradually got more force, and finally, Sam had no option but to run to the abandoned plot near the park. He stood under the huge tree in the plot, which was busy dancing in the rain.

And then he saw it.

A huge strong bough emerging from the branch of the tree. He climbed it and rested himself on the bough, under the fresh green leaves of the tree

It was like his own little tree house.

A few birds dropped by, singing songs to greet their new neighbor.

All Sam had was the plop - plopping of raindrops and the birds to accompany him.

He'd never felt so closer to nature, before.

He remembered his wish.

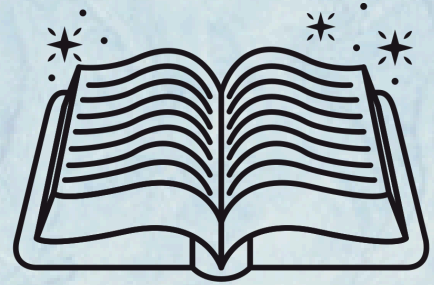

The perfect, quiet holiday.

As the first rays of the golden sun entered his tinted window, and fall on her drowsy eyes, he woke with a jerk and a happy smile felt on his face. Because today was finally the day for which all waited throughout the year, it was Christmas. He rushed down the stairs, skipping two at a time, and on the dormmat standing to see yelled, "Merry Christmas!!" But it seemed like the silence was playing with his excited self as only the study 'kill' breeze touched in front of his eyes, with no one in rear sight. Sam remembered writing the quite awkward wish to Santa last night, didn't he? It was like "I was assured thinking a wish would come true, and Sam thought that writing wishes every year was like launching arrows into the empty space in the sky out of the arrows but for it to become true it was like a miracle stolen. Actually, it was a Christmas miracle!"

As he stood while the train of thought looted through his head, he saw all the scenery of the chirpy orange. It was an open door through that door, entered his mother, all sweaty and hacked with bags. "Dear, today merry Christmas!! It's gonna be a busy one, although as your uncle from New York is coming for a Christmas celebration." Sam said.

Sam remembered his uncle dimly, but the clearest memory he had was that house was very noisy. And True as it was, soon Sam heard the loud chatter of his uncle. "Mattie, why did we call uncle?" "Why not, it's only one in a blue moon that he comes here." "But then, Christmas would be all noisy!" "The noisier the merrier!" Sam saw his uncle enter through the door, and the wet shoes crunched under his feet. The burly man had a marvelous smile that revealed his clean, white "teeth. And then he shook in a voice as loud as thunder 'Ho Ho! Merry Christmas!' He hugged Sam so tight, that he felt his bones would break to pieces. Sam managed to crack a smile.

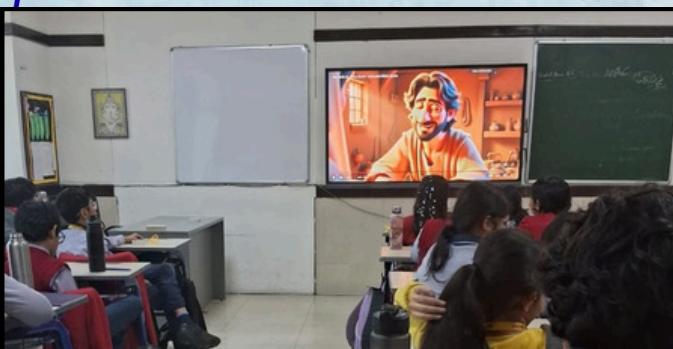

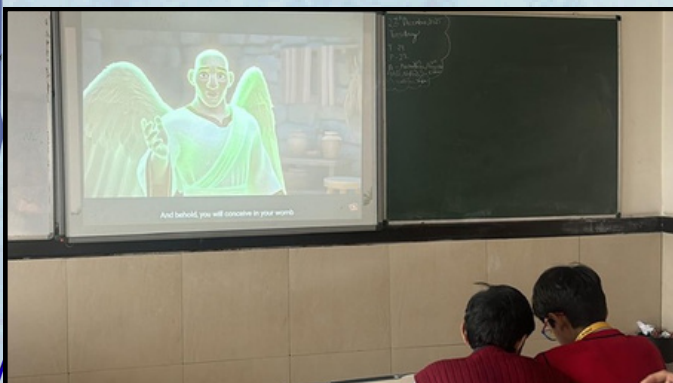

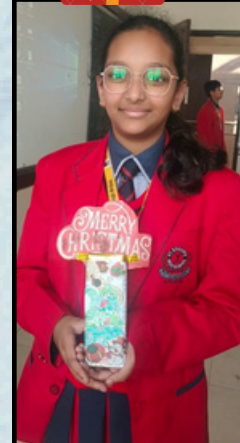

The whole day passed as noisy as a disco studio. His uncle was a merry, frivolous man indeed, always full of some drunken it is final stages and the clock ticked seven. Sam finally managed to escape his house. Outside was a world full of lights, still it was dark of the gloomy snow. And then Sam heard a weird bark. It wasn't a bark, but a small 'hup'. Sam's eyes searched around to find a too carton crushed ruthlessly by a car's tires. And when he looked inside the carton, he found puppy, about the size of a rular. It's large was wagging, and eyes gleaming with Christmas gleam. As Sam slowly picked it up, he found it's leg bitten by sharp fangs, who left a deep mark and a ruptured muscle. while Sam was feeling down due to a holiday ruined, the puppy was joyous even though the beta had ruined his life. Because today was X'mas not a day to feel down. As Sam slowly picked it up, he realised that his life might never be peaceful again, but life needn't be peaceful as long as there's always satisfaction. Maybe Christmas miracles do exist, just not as you expect them to."
