Q1. Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow.

Hares and rabbits are small mammals that belong to the same family, but they are different in many ways. Rabbits usually live in groups inside underground burrows, while hares live alone and rest in shallow nests above the ground. Hares are generally faster and have longer ears and stronger legs than rabbits.

Both hares and rabbits reproduce quickly. A female rabbit can give birth several times a year, producing many young ones each time. This rapid breeding helps their population grow fast, especially in places where food and shelter are easily available.

These animals mainly eat grass, leaves, and vegetables. They play an important role in nature by spreading seeds and serving as food for other animals. Farmers, however, sometimes find them troublesome because they damage crops.

Even though they look similar, hares and rabbits have different habits and lifestyles. Learning about them helps us understand how animals adapt to their surroundings.

A. Give answer to the following questions.

I. Where do rabbits usually live?

II. Mention one physical difference between hares and rabbits.

III. Why does the population of rabbits grow fast?

B. Choose the correct option for the following questions.

I. What do hares and rabbits mainly eat?

a) Meat b) Fruits only c) Grass and leaves d) Insects

II. What does the word “troublesome” most likely mean in the passage?

- a) Helpful b) Causing problem c) Very friendly d) Silent

Q2. Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow.

Every year, a colourful Tomato Festival is celebrated in a small-town famous for growing tomatoes. People from nearby places come to take part in the event. The streets are decorated with red banners, and stalls sell tomato-based foods like soup, juice, and pasta.

The festival includes fun activities such as tomato-throwing games, cooking contests, and music performances. Farmers proudly display different varieties of tomatoes and share tips about farming. The festival also helps local growers earn more by selling their fresh produce.

Children enjoy the games, while adults take part in competitions and cultural programs. The event brings people together and spreads happiness in the community. It also teaches visitors about the importance of agriculture.

The Tomato Festival is not just about fun but it also supports farmers and promotes local culture. Every year, it leaves behind happy memories for everyone who attends.

A. Give answer to the following questions.

I. Why is the Tomato Festival celebrated?

II. Name one activity mentioned in the festival.

III. How does the festival help farmers?

B. Choose the correct option for the following questions.

I. What kind of foods are sold at the festival?
