Students of Classes VI–VIII at ITL Public School celebrated Raksha Bandhan through meaningful activities that transformed the traditional rakhi into a promise of responsibility and care. Classes VI and VII created a “Rakhi of Responsibility”, pledging to protect others, stand up for what is right and care for their surroundings. Class VIII created a “Rakhi for the Voiceless”, expressing their commitment to protect animals, birds, trees and all living beings. Let every rakhi be more than a thread—let it be a promise to protect, care and give a voice to every life that needs it.

Students of IX and X enthusiastically participated in a Raksha Bandhan Card Making Activity titled The RakHIStory , to celebrate the spirit of protection, unity, and responsibility. The activity drew inspiration from four significant stories from Indian history. Students learned about the bond of respect and timely support between Draupadi and Lord Krishna. They also studied the example of trust and protection set by Rani Karnavati and Humayun. The initiative of Rabindranath Tagore, who tied rakhis to promote unity between Hindus and Muslims during the partition of Bengal. Additionally, students were reminded of the touching tradition of sisters from local villages tying rakhis to soldiers as a symbol of national pride and gratitude. During the activity, students designed and crafted handmade cards. They illustrated one of the historical stories on the cover of their card. Inside the card on one side they wrote a commitment message outlining how they and their siblings would protect and support each other. As a unique and meaningful addition, a small seed of a fruit or vegetable was affixed to the card. Students took a pledge that they and their siblings would plant the seed together on the day of Raksha Bandhan. Through this activity, students explored India’s cultural heritage and reflected on core values of care, respect, and duty. They understood that the essence of Raksha Bandhan extends beyond siblings to include protection of relationships, society, and the nation. The inclusion of the seed reinforced the message that true protection also involves nurturing and caring for Mother Nature. It instilled in students the understanding that bonds are strengthened through love, responsibility, and collective action.
