VISIT TO AFGJI- SPECIAL WING

“ Only a life lived for others is worthwhile”- Albert Einstein

Psychology students of grades XI and XII visited AFGJI- Special Wing on 28 th August and 30th August respectively .

The main objective of the session was to sensitize children towards special children, to give them a first hand experience of the psycho-social rehabilitation and to help children to relate with the mental illnesses that they have studied.

The students also had individual interactions with children, special educators and therapist and learned various therapeutic strategies used for special children.

Overall the visit was an enriching experience that left an indelible impression on the minds of the students , inspiring them to always have a spirit of compassion towards all.

Students feedback :

- Malvika R. Tamhane

“It was a very educational trip, was really nice to spend time with children and talk to their teachers”.

- Aditya Sharma

“It was a truly eye-opening experience that helped me understand the daily challenges that these children face. The visit was very educational.”

- Sanskriti

“ Meeting these children was a heartwarming experience, the dedication of the staff and the supportive atmosphere created for students was vibrant. I am glad that I had the opportunity to be a part of this visit. It was amazing”.
