

HUMAN RIGHTS DAY

The Air Force School, Subroto Park, observed Human Rights Day on 10th December 2024 with a series of engaging and educational activities tailored for students across classes VI to X. The celebration aimed to instil awareness and appreciation for human rights among the young minds and inspire them to contribute to the cause of equality and justice.

Class VI: Knowing Nelson Mandela

Students of Class VI delved into the inspiring life of Nelson Mandela, exploring his relentless fight against apartheid in South Africa and his unwavering commitment to upholding human rights. The session highlighted Mandela's values of forgiveness, perseverance, and equality, leaving students motivated to stand against injustice.

Class VII: Animated Video on Rosa Parks

An animated video on Rosa Parks, the iconic figure whose courage sparked the Civil Rights Movement in the United States, was shown to Class VII students. The engaging medium helped the students understand the impact of individual bravery in challenging societal injustices.

Class VIII: Role Play as Human Rights Activists

Students of Class VIII brought historical figures to life by enacting renowned human rights activists such as Malala Yousafzai, Martin Luther King Jr., and Mahatma Gandhi. Through their performances, students showcased the struggles and triumphs of these leaders, emphasizing the importance of advocating for human rights.

Class IX: Documentary Screening

A documentary on the Human Rights Movement in India was screened for Class IX. The film provided an insightful overview of the nation’s journey towards safeguarding human rights and the efforts of key individuals and organizations in promoting equality and justice.

Class X: Debate on “Viksit Bharat and Human Rights”

Class X students engaged in a thought-provoking debate on the topic, “Viksit Bharat and Human Rights,” critically analyzing India’s developmental goals vis-à-vis the preservation of human rights. The debate encouraged students to reflect on the balance between progress and the protection of fundamental rights.

The activities were well-received by students and teachers alike, fostering a deeper understanding of the significance of human rights in shaping societies. The celebration served as a reminder of the ongoing efforts required to achieve a just and equitable world, encouraging students to take active roles as responsible global citizens.

The event was a resounding success, aligning with the school's mission to nurture informed, empathetic, and proactive individuals.
